

I think that a television conglomerate using its power to persuade is no worse than musical groups using their power to persuade. The dixie chicks and bruce springsteen feel that they have the right to convince people from their soapboxes but Sinclair doesn't have the right because, I guess, Sinclair can reach a wider audience. Celebrities need to shut the heck up! Please do not allow a few whiny, bleeding-heart liberals to run rampant over Sinclair. Thank you.